Bluebird Trail Report

Our bluebird trail is now reporting 33 active bluebird nests containing 40 eggs and 81 chicks. Forty-three more chicks have fledged. You can spot a fledgling by the spotting on their breasts instead of the rust coloring. They also have less blue feathers on their backs and wings. They look like small brown birds with blue tails and partially blue wings. They will stay this way until very late summer. Then, they slowly molt all of their body feathers. The molt is completed by fall and they will look identical to the adult. For the rest of their lives they will have just one molt per year in late summer or early fall.

Please send your questions and/or reports to Shirley at saritsema@gmail.com.

9th Annual Swim Across America Event

Sat., Aug. 24 | 7 a.m. | AL

Since its inaugural event at Innsbrook in 2016, Swim Across America St. Louis has raised over $1.6 million to support cutting-edge research and clinical trials at St. Louis' Siteman Cancer Center, with Team IBK consistently the top fund-raising participating team. Whether you swim or not, you can join us to Make Waves to Fight Cancer! Register to swim or volunteer, donate, and learn more at https://www.swimacrossamerica.org/site/TR?fr_id=7129&pg=entry.

Our next porch concert will be held on Sunday, August 4 from 2-4 p.m. "Jeff, Joe, & Steve" will be providing the music for the afternoon. You don't need to be an IHS member to come enjoy the concert, but we'd love to have you join. To become a member, visit www.innsbrookhistoricalsociety.org. Or, if you have any other questions, don't hesitate to call Dave at 314.704.7001.

Mike and Diane Vaughn, the kind donors of their 19th century barn have now donated a second barn to the IHS. Our crew was able to disassemble it last week and move it to the Historic Village site. While much smaller than the original barn donated to us in 2023, this one has some beautiful "red" wood panels which we plan to use in the construction of the main doors to the rebuilt barn. If you haven't seen the progress our all-volunteer crew has made, plan to stop by. You'll be amazed at what has already been accomplished.

NATURE NOTES

Why You Shouldn't Feed Deer

The Missouri Department of Conservation is asking residents who live in Chronic Wasting Disease (CWD) management counties to help slow the spread and reduce the impact of CWD in Missouri. CWD is a fatal neurological disease that infects only deer and other members of the deer family.

The disease has no vaccine or cure and is 100-percent fatal. CWD is spread from deer to deer and the potential for transmission increases when deer gather in larger, concentrated numbers. Unnatural congregation of deer in places such as feeders and mineral licks substantially increases the chances of spreading the deadly disease.

"This disease threatens Missouri's deer herd, hunting traditions, and many businesses supported by hunting," said Franklin County Conservation Agent, Corporal Ben Pursley.

To reduce the spread of CWD, MDC has put in place special regulations within the CWD Management Zone - Warren County falls within this management zone.

Corporal Pursley stressed the following ways residents in these counties can help reduce the spread of CWD:

- Don't feed deer. Feeding deer causes an unnatural congregation of animals in one spot and increase the likelihood that an infected deer may spread the disease to others. Feeding of wildlife is permitted within 100 feet of a residence or occupied building but it is recommended that any feed placed near your home is done so in a manner to exclude deer from accessing it, such as bird feeders six feet or more above the ground and or feeders designed specifically to exclude deer.
- Don't put out mineral licks. Mineral licks such as salt blocks, mineral blocks, trophy rocks™, and other commercially produced consumable attractants will increase the risk of spreading CWD.
- Encourage others. Encourage neighbors and friends to stop feeding deer.

"Deer are a resource that is enjoyed by more than just hunters. It's everyone's responsibility to help stop the spread of this disease," said Pursley.
